THE MANY FACES OF FIVE POINTS BANNER PROJECT

Have you taken a walk or drive down Welton Street lately? You have got to see the new banners of the colorful faces of some of our Welton Street Business Owners? You will find these new banners between 26th & 27th and Welton displayed on the new pedestrian light poles.

When you take a walk in the opposite direction, you will see the names of our Welton Street Businesses by categories displayed on the backs of the banners.

Just in case you haven't walked or traveled that route lately, take a look at a couple of banners as they appear on Welton Street!

The Many Faces of Five Points Banner Project was completed in October 2018. Artistic portraits were hand drawn by a local artist, Thomas Lockhart III to depict the faces and stories of business owners that make up the Welton Corridor. Nineteen individuals are currently being showcased, while others will be given the opportunity in the future.

Election 2018: Almost 1 Million Coloradans Have Already Voted!

The Colorado Voter's Guide To The 2018 Election

With current Gov. John Hickenlooper term-limited, Colorado will choose another leader for the next four years on Election Day. Democratic U.S. Representative Jared Polis and Republican State Treasurer Walker Stapleton are facing off to replace him in the biggest of the midterm races.

While many are focused on the topline matchup to replace Hickenlooper, that doesn't mean the undercards are anything to ignore - especially on the new tax front. Many municipalities and counties will be asking for money, and there's a few statewide asks too. The ballot in Colorado will have a lot for each voter to consider, it's our hope that this guide will help answer your questions.
